Seven Shorts To See at the Dam Short Film Festival

KILL OVF
Written by Graeme Day

This short will probably be the best film about people who make music that you’ll ever see in your life. It’s a collection of some of the most talented and most hilarious musicians from the northwest. The story of a young woman named "Kill OVF" and her fight to keep her music going. A must see for fans of all genres.

Director: Graeme Day
Running Time: 77 min

The Vast
Written by Kyle McFarling

Today, meaning be sure to watch this film. It’s about a man who has been in a coma for 15 years and a lost history. It’s a tale of love and loss, and a journey to find the meaning of life. A must see for fans of drama and romance.

Director: Kyle McFarling
Running Time: 224 min

Viktor
Written by John Barnes

At New York City’s International Film Festival in 2012, director John Barnes shocked the audience with a short film called "Viktor." The film is about a man who wakes up in a strange room and must figure out how to get back home. It’s a heartwarming story of resilience and determination.

Director: John Barnes
Running Time: 264 min

White Light
Written by John Dancer

White Light is a feature-length documentary that explores the life of a former nuclear scientist who has devoted his life to exposing the dangers of nuclear power. It’s a chilling look at the impact of nuclear energy on our planet.

Director: John Dancer
Running Time: 264 min

White Gold
Written by John Dancer

How long can a woman hold it? "White Gold" is a feature-length documentary that explores the life of a woman who has devoted her life to exposing the dangers of nuclear power. It’s a chilling look at the impact of nuclear energy on our planet.

Director: John Dancer
Running Time: 264 min

The Marcel Ringer: A Fight for the Ages
Written by P. B. Ringer

The Marcel Ringer is a feature-length documentary that explores the life of a former boxer who has devoted his life to exposing the dangers of boxing. It’s a chilling look at the impact of boxing on our society.

Director: P. B. Ringer
Running Time: 264 min